

Data Integrity

Accurate, up-to-date real estate information is essential for a company's financial reporting. Most of the pertinent data is buried in difficult to access documents. JCP has developed a process to abstract critical data from real estate leases and populate databases. By making relevant information accessible, JCP helps companies integrate real estate into the company planning cycle.

Intelligent Imaging: A more effective way to capture source documentation. Our trained team codes only the key documents in each file which will reduce abstraction time and number of pages scanned.

Document Management: A check and balance process to endure all scanned documentation is present, clear and legible. JCP manages this process through a propriety database that allows for transfer into a client's own system.

Lease Abstraction: JCP provides accurate lease abstractions from source documents or providing supplemental abstraction to fill or correct data gaps. In addition, JCP provides international translations for a specific market.

Data Migration: By combining data from existing systems, normalizing and validating data quality, this approach involves less time and cost than manual abstraction.

Data Management: JCP can integrate and validate information from disparate systems, track and organize source documents and develop a real time maintenance process.
