Bob Cook is a Senior Managing Director in the Commercial Real Estate Department of Jackson Cross Partners. Bob is responsible for the negotiation of lease transactions nationwide for one of the nation's largest outpatient physical therapy providers. He joined Jackson Cross in June 2019, and brings over 25 years of commercial real estate experience to the position.

Prior to joining Jackson Cross Partners, Bob spent 4 years with Jones Lang LaSalle in NYC as an Assistant General Manager overseeing a 500,000/SF Class A office building in mid-town Manhattan for a Dutch investor, and then as a General Manager directing Bank of America's east coast real estate operations totaling over 1.5M SF. Bob then moved over to Aegis Realty Consultants in Philadelphia for four years managing and directing all aspects of a Washington D.C.-based one million SF office portfolio for European investors. Aegis was acquired in 2002 by Equus Capital Partners, and Bob spent the next 15 years at Equus where he became a Vice President in the Asset Management group overseeing all aspects of managing commercial real estate portfolios, including leasing, marketing, dispositions, strategies, repositioning, reporting and managing multiple players.

Bob is a graduate of Rollins College, and earned an MBA at The Wharton School at the University of Pennsylvania. Bob lives in Maple Glen, PA with his wife and three children.
